The Net Rail and Net Wall Climbs are one of our most popular items; they can accommodate a large number of bodies on both sides, regardless of the age group. One side is an open net, while the other is a series of horizontal bars, or, in the case of the Net Wall Climb, one side is the net, and the other is a solid wall with handholds.

The net is designed to dynamically move, a feature that becomes even more challenging when a number of bodies are on the net at the same time.

Because these Net Rail and Net Wall Climb challenge elements are for 3 different age groups, please make sure you choose the right one. The one for young kids is about 4’ high at most, the one for older kids is 8’ and 10’ high, and the one for adults is 12’ high!

These all come as kits, and sit on the ground, so they’re portable (but they are heavy). However, if you want to install this fabulous element in a permanent location, you can easily drill 1/2” holes in the bottom plates and drive 24” rebars through the holes into the ground.

Complete assembly and installation instructions are included.

For schools and public playgrounds, you do need a 6’ fall zone all the way around all these features, but that fall zone can be shared with other fall zones (except for swing and slide fall zones)
